switchboard model

in polymer crystals

A model of crystallinity in which the crystallized segments of a macromolecule belong to the same crystal, although the stems are connected randomly.

Source:
Purple Book, p. 84